I believe the settlement as it stands now between the government and Microsoft is fair and just. I believe the government has been exemplary in its conduct during the Microsoft case. The nine remaining states should end their suits in this case and join the Federal government in ending this long running case. They are only wasting the tax payers money. For AOL to bring its suit against Microsoft on behalf of Netscape is pure folly on AOL's part. The case has pretty much been decided on. They are only try to delay it. For what purpose? Who knows. In my personal opinion I don't believe Microsoft ever did anything wrong. But since it has already been ruled against that's OK. We should move on from there. End this case now before it does more harm than good. Thank you for listening.
